NEW HAVEN HIGH SCHOOL

NEW HAVEN, INDIANA 46774

VOLUME XXIX

Allen County Public Library
Ft. Wayne, Indiana

Built at Eben and Middle Streets in 1885, this building was New Haven School until 1923.

A heritage for growth

From a log cabin on the Absolom Holcomb farm in 1829, to a small frame building at the corner of Eben and Middle Streets. These were the beginnings of our heritage of education. Acceptance of free education was long in coming to the Northern Indiana forests. Not until 1858 was the two-room school on the edge of New Haven made the first free school in Adams Township.

The canal and later the railroad boom gave a big boost to New Haven and eventually to learning. Even a two-room addition could not contain the students, and so the building was torn down in 1885 and replaced by a brick structure. New Haven High School was organized in that building in 1911 and four students were graduated two years later.

In September 1967, 1,300 pupils entered the present school complex. They crowded nearly to capacity the 1923 East Building, the 1956 and 1959 West Building, and the 1965 addition. In February, Superintendent Paul Harding announced a new high school may be built by 1971 on Wayne Trace to alliviate the overcrowding of the present high school buildings.

Education has been an integral part of New Haven, Indiana, for 139 years. We have a heritage rooted in the pioneer past that we continue to draw upon for contemporary expansion. We truly have a heritage of growth.

School's hoard of extras pinch students' pockets

School used to be a place to go between harvest and spring planting. Now it is a full-time occupation for students which keeps them busy and broke all year 'round.

It costs to be a student. Club dues and pins, season tickets, play tickets, dances, club projects, and the yearbook and newspaper all bite into a student's wallet and also his parents'. And there are dates to spend money on. It's almost too expensive to have school spirit.

Believing that just going to classes is school is a myth. Besides the seven 55-minute periods there are club programs, committee meetings, rehearsals, interminable bus rides, late drivers in car pools, evenings at the library, and summer institutes.

The social games of the sexes are also a part of school. A girl slips a Valentine card through a locker vent only to find the recipient doesn't use his locker.

It's all part of school life.

Cold football games provide a good excuse for huddling under blankets.

Changes make NH 'completely different'

Finding a parking space in the overcrowded parking lot was even a problem in 1948.

"It's like going to a completely different school," commented most upper classmen in September. An increase of 150 pupils brought the enrollment to 1,300, making necessary many changes.

To use space more efficiently, seven periods were crammed into the school day. Typing, biology, and girls' gym classes were scheduled for every period of the day.

Five half-hour lunch periods were set up from 10:15 to 1:10. Students spent a half hour in study hall and then were free for a half hour to eat in the Cafeteria or to go downtown. For the first time an ala carte lunch line was provided for students who didn't want the regular 40-cent hot lunch. Many penny savers subsisted on Jello cubes, chocolate chip cookies, and ham sandwiches.

The only time the entire student body met together was in the parking lot for fire drills. All extracurricular activities were before or after school. Some faculty attributed the lack of unity to the fact that students were never together, not even for assemblies.

Gary Foulk and Tim Martin seek readmittance slips from Mr. Paul Armstrong. Last year slips were distributed in first period classes instead of in the office.

Strong winds are forgotten as the queen's name is finally announced. With Homecoming Queen are her escort Gary Snyder and Bonnie Bunch and Mark Chapman.

Bonfire and floats spark Homecoming

Even a week before 6 p.m., Oct. 20, Student Council members, faculty, and administrations were frantically mumbling TGWHO (Thank God When Homecoming's Over.)

Thursday night, two outhouses and a tree trunk helped fuel the kick-off bonfire on the football field parking lot. The Marching Band quit practicing to give an impromptu concert.

The honored guests of the second Homecoming were the Class of 1948 and the first football team (1945) with coach Carl Buffenbarger. Homecoming Queen Linda Williams was attended by seniors Bonnie Bunch, Cindy Mervine, Vicki Perrin, and Becky Rennecker. Underclass attendents were junior Debby Springer and Janet Richhart, sophomore.

The Girls' Gym was pschedelically decorated for the dance where the Surf Sons and The Hurd provided music.

Oh yes, there was a football game, too. New Haven came in second behind Snider High School, 26-0.

Masque and Gavel's car was one of 29 in the parade. A tractor pulling the Victory Bell and a tandem bicycle were also entered.

Just before the parade, juniors Twianne Stoller and Kathy Lake cram the final tissue flowers on the Student Council float. Other floats were entered by Pep Club and the Junior and Sophomore Classes.

In a rewritten version of Little Black Sambo, panther Charlie Sadler halts Greg Theurer (Little Black Sambo) at the pep session and demands his umbrella or his life.

NHHS focus now includes world scene

The High School Gymnasium, the old Community Building, was once the center of community interest. But now New Haven's focus has enlarged to include the entire world community.

New Haven people have come from all around the world. Sophomore Dina Bliznoff moved to New Haven Aug. 7, 1966, from Yugoslavia. After living in North Africa, Spain, England, France, and Greece with her family, junior Jill Swaidner came to New Haven this year. Jeane Grossman, junior, lived in Cuba until the Castro take-over. Mr. David Lutz, German teacher, lived in Europe for several years.

Foreign visitors acquainted students with other cultures. Mr. Liew Kee Kok, Singapore YFC director, gave the background of the Viet Nam war to social studies students in October as he made a plea for further Asian support. College students from Chile and the Congo told students of their countries in January when they visited classrooms.

The northwest corner of the Gym burned in 1945 destroying a section of bleachers and a locker room. Built in 1938, the Gymnasium was called the Community Building.

A heritage of growth in the classroom

Early Hoosier settlers were primarily interested in the necessities of survival: food, shelter, and clothing. But gradually they looked beyond day-to-day existence to the future of their children. Free schools developed and the curriculum included the fundamentals of education; reading, writing, and arithmetic became increasingly important.

A century later these same three are complemented by the Naval Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps, advanced industrial arts, clerical lab, sociology, journalism, business law, speech, and the fine arts.

Our continuing growth in academics reflects the important emphasis New Haven, Indiana, places on educating future citizens.

New Haven gets Indiana's first NJROTC

Col. Krippner uses an overhead projector in teaching the first year curriculum.

New Haven received Indiana's first Naval Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps this year. There are only 30 other units in the U. S. Navy Captain Vince Schumaker officially commissioned the unit during an evening ceremony in the Gym Dec. 14. He presented a scroll to the school from the Navy Department in Washington, D. C.

Cadet Lieutenant Commander Terry Rigby commanded 155 cadets. The joint Navy-Marine effort was headed by Lt. Col. Robert Krippner and Navy Retired Senior Chiefs Chester Dodd and E. W. Young. Chief Young returned to San Diego, California, in January.

The NJROTC unit presented 120 hours of instruction during the school year—72 classroom hours and 48 hours of drill. Uniforms, texts, and training aids were provided by the Navy Department. Eventually the course will provide three years of instruction.

Accepting the commissioning scroll from Capt. V. C. Schumaker is Mr. Michael Bonahoom.

70 pupils build displays for annual Science Fair

All advanced science students were required to prepare a science project. The projects were presented to classes, and 70 were displayed at the East Allen County Science Fair in the Cafeteria March 7. There were six entry fields in the fair including the new field of psychology research.

Mr. Lynn Klopfenstein's zoology class tested the GQ (Germ Quotient) of the high school by taking germ samples from drinking fountains, the johns, halls, and also from a kiss..

There was a biology class scheduled for every period of the day because of the large number needing the class. Physical science, botany, chemistry, and physics completed the science courses, along with basic chemistry, a course for girls planning to study nursing after graduation.

Students apply math theories in daily work

Protractors and compasses, chalk and string, rulers, and pennies were used by students to discover the "why's" and "how's" of mathematics problems.

Geometry classes put theorems to work in their daily studies. Mr. Richard Schilling's classes constructed parabolas, hyperboles, and ellipses with a compass and straight-edge instead of plotting a set of points on a graph.

Rules were relaxed to allow gambling in school—for the sake of learning. Second-year algebra students in Mrs. Janice Chase's classes pitched pennies to test the laws of probability.

Senior math convinced some students to study a different field in college. College algebra and trigonometry challenged seniors with the binomial theorem, logarithms, sines and cosines, and inverse functions and relations. For seniors, these classes were a big jump from the Pythagorean Theorem they learned in sophomore geometry.

'United Nations' debates admission of East Germany

MR WILKERSON

Rabbi Doppelt, Mr. Moody, and Mr. Wilkerson—Fort Wayne civic leaders—discuss the racial problem with the sociology classes. A question and answer period followed.

Social studies courses stressed involvement in world affairs, politics, and history.

The "United Nations" met in Mr. Ed Zapp's world history class. Debates on the admission of East Germany to the U.N. and Vietnam peace talks produced heated discussions by students representing countries.

Sociology classes studied group behavior. A panel of civic and church leaders led a question and answer session on improving racial relations.

May 7 the student body nominated Democrat Robert Kennedy and Republican Richard Nixon for the Presidency in a mock primary conducted by Mr. Stephen Simon's government classes.

Mr. Thomas Hufford's U.S. History classes brought history to life with seminars and skits. The angel Gabriel questioned Woodrow Wilson's right to involve the U.S. in World War I, and "jurors" heard the trial of J. Robert Oppenheimer, alleged spy.

Involvement adds realism to languages

Experiencing a foreign language rather that just learning it added realism to German, Latin, and French.

Mr. David Lutz's second and third year German classes worked with a class from North Miami High School in Denver to have a German retreat at Epworth Forest on Lake Webster May 10 and 11. A German exchange student from Manchester College led discussions on problems in Germany. There was folk singing, lots of German food, and frustration when the correct phrases refused to come to mind.

The advanced Latin classes recorded the text of Virgil's account of the death of King Priam of Troy complete with sound effects. Cellophane "fire," wailers and weepers, and drum rolls added to the recording's realism.

French classes made French Christmas cards and learned vocabulary by playing "Simon Says." The second year French classes presented their versions of Androcles and the Lion using trees, birds, flowers, worms, and sound effects. One class added a surprise ending by having Caesar stab Androcles to death.

Junior Bill Rutledge holds the microphone to pick up Roger Montgomery's "flames" and Debbi Hirschman's account of Priam's death.

Senior Ellen Handlin checks over her Grammar 12 term paper hoping she won't find any errors.

Theatre visits complement drama study

"I come to bury Caesar . . ."—and Julius Caesar nearly buried English IV. Literature classes emphasized drama more this year by attending productions of The Crucible and Julius Caesar at the Civic Theatre and Our Town at the PIT. Second semester English VI saw the film version of Macbeth.

New Haven, the only East Allen County School to have a separated English curriculum, offered alternating semesters of grammar and literature. In one speech class, a required course, the routine was broken by preparing television programs and presenting them to the class. Journalism and drama promoted written and spoken media.

Concentrated reviews in grammar and writing led to a final term paper in Grammar and Composition 12. The main objective of the courses was to prepare students for college work.

English III sophomores act out social conversation roles. Ken Borcherding, the doctor, and Sue Sievers and Pat Stouder visit Chris Callahan.

Hours of daily practice sessions are back of every public performance of the Band.

Senior Debbie Hanson demonstrates design weaving at Kaleidoscope of Culture II.

Keeping one eye on the music, senior Dorinda Bristow and sophomores Chris Callahan and Rick Humbarger follow the director at the Christmas assembly.

Fine arts classes show wares for approval

Not all classes could show the results of their work to the entire school, but the arts did through displays, concerts, and public performances.

The halls lost some of their drab appearance throughout the year as art classes posted their work. Posters, linoleum block prints, abstract sketching, stitchery, and weaving were a part of the curriculum.

The new ceramics lab produced not only the expected bulging pots but also the intricate statues of animals and humans. Using the media of silver and wood, the students designed pieces of jewelry.

Music theory students were a big jump ahead of regular music students who enter college. They studied the basic theory of composition. Their final test was composing a song using the standards that had been taught throughout the semester.

New clerical lab stresses use of office equipment

Margie Memmer and Carol Stevens use the rotary calculator in the new clerical lab.

The new clerical lab, meeting two hours each day, worked on projects that had been done in the community rather than using textbooks. The non-shorthand class stressed the use of machines and typing. The lab was equipped with the latest office machinery. Girls had to prepare as sophomores to enter clerical lab their senior year.

Juniors studied basic machine training and third-semester typing, and then were eligible to apply for clerical lab. The class helped girls in getting jobs and advancing in their occupational choices.

Business law classes attended trials and then staged their own trial. Typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, general business, business math, and sales technique prepared students for life in the business community.

Home show exhibits results of hours of preparation

The Midnight Skulker snitches cold turkey from Phil Ehinger's tray of leftovers.

Architectual drawing and shop classes cooperated to present a parade of homes show in May. The architectual drawing students drew complete home plans and then built models from the plans. Each house was artificially landscaped and set up as it would be on an actual home site. The shop classes exhibited furniture and other projects.

In child care and home nursing 39 students earned Red Cross certificates and pins for completing a course in the care of the sick and the injured.

Home economics classes had many activities. One class visited Bennett's clothing factory and toured the sewing rooms. Other classes studied money management, interior decorating, and wedding etiquette.

Boys' foods and girls' cooking classes baked 5,000 cookies for the Snowball Hop refreshments. Each of the cooking classes prepared a Christmas dinner and invited guests.

To get to the athletic field, boys take the trek along the hilltop and through the tunnel.

Sophomores require more gym classes

Even though the class ranks were swelled by the increase in sophomores, only the girls' gym classes had to compensate for the increase. A female physical education class met every period of the day, necessitating an extra part-time teacher.

There was not a great increase in the boys' section because the new NJROTC program absorbed most of the increase. Boys enrolled in NJROTC did not take physical education. Three years of NJROTC will satisfy the requirements of physical education and a year of science.

A heritage of growth in athletics

There was a time when New Haven had three major sports: Boys' Basketball, Girls' Basketball, and baseball. Basketball was not the fast-paced game known today. In the 1923 District Tournament in the South Side High School Gymnasium, New Haven defeated Churubusco in the first game, 12-6. Pitted against the host team in the second game, New Haven lost the high-scoring game, 38-9.

In 1968 there was a wide range of sports available to anyone wishing to participate. Varsity sports included cross country, football, wrestling, basketball, track, and golf. For the girls there was Girls' Athletic Association. Intramurals were available for boys not participating in varsity sports.

Harriers win first NEIAC title since '64

Donn Treese and Geary Hoeppner, juniors, round the corner and head into the last lap.

New Haven's fleet cross country team topped off a near-perfect season (14-1 in dual meets) with a NEIAC crown and a fifth place finish at the IHSAA Regional Meet.

The Bulldogs took second in the IHSAA Sectional and placed third in the Goshen Invitational Meet.

In the city series competition, the ten varsity thinlies scored eight victories and only one loss to wind up second behind Elmhurst's perfect 9-0 mark. The Trojans were the only team to down New Haven in dual meets.

Another second place finish was copped by the sophomores in the East Noble Sophomore Invitational. The reserve team posted a 9-4 dual meet record.

The best individual time was posted by junior Ted Cameron. He skimmed over the two-mile course at Havenhurst in 9:40. Junior Donn Treese was close behind at 9:54 in another meet at the local course.

Season brightened by Bellmont whomp

Three Bellmont Braves down ball carrier Dave McHenry, but NH downed the Braves, 43-7.

Although the 1967 football team posted a record of two victories and seven defeats, there were bright spots.

The Bulldogs' sweetest victory was beating the Huntington Vikings, never previously a loser to NH.

The gridders lost the Homecoming game to Snider by a score of 26-0.

"Dad's Night" was initiated in the '67 season. The players' fathers were introduced at halftime of the Columbia City game. Although the "night" was a success, the game wasn't as the Eagles won, 14-0.

That game was also part of a three-game NEIAC schedule for the year. The Bulldogs finished with a 1-2 NEIAC record.

Senior Cal Ketzler earned a berth on the All-Conference team. He was named the Best Defensive Player of the Year for New Haven.

Denny Becker, junior, and senior Ed Merz received Honorable Mention on the All-Conference team. Merz was Best Offensive Player of the Year and honorary captain.

Jim Housh dashes down the sideline for a gain against North Side. Both teams' efforts were futile as the game ended tangled in a 6-6 tie.

The junior varsity football team ended its season with an even record, 2-2-2. Although they posted three shut-outs, one was a 0-0 tie with the Bishop Luers Knights.

The junior gridders' high game score for the season was 27-0 against the Concordia Cadets.

Finishing with a 3-9 record, Bulldog grapplers managed to stay in the upper five berths in tournament action. The matmen tied with Elmhurst for fifth in the IHSAA Sectional, finished third in the NEIAC Meet, and tied with Goshen for second in the home meet.

Best individual records were posted by Dan Replogle, 18-3 and Tom Lomont, 15-4.

Inexperience forgotten in opening Sectional game

The varsity basketball team of 1967-68 posted seven victories despite the lack of experience by most of the squad. The cagers dropped 15 games during the season.

The Bulldogs scored a victory in the IHSAA Sectional by defeating the Huntertown Wildcats in the tourney's first overtime game, 75-72.

However, they were beaten in the semi-final round by Central Catholic.

Sectional scoring honors went to Ross Gick with 43 points and Dave McHenry with 41.

In the Huntington Holiday Invitational Tourney, the varsity lost both the opening game to the host Vikings and the consolation contest to the Terre Haute Garfield Eagles.

The Bulldogs captured fifth place in the NEIAC with a 3-4 record.

With 309 points, McHenry was the leading scorer of the year. Al Lahr was second with 291 points.

Basketball reserves win eight games

The Junior Varsity basketball team compiled a record of eight victories and 12 losses in 1967-68.

The Bulldogs finished third in the Bishop Dwenger Sophomore Invitational Tourney. They lost to the Saints in the first game, 46-36, but came back to beat the Snider Panthers, 54-50, in the consolation match.

Ritchie Clark led the reserve cagers on offense with 172 points. Gary Peterson at 158 and Don Wharton with 188 were the only other players to make it into triple figures.

The best offensive game the Bulldogs had was 77 points against Angola, while the defensive sparkler came in the next game, holding Woodlan to a mere 31.

In first year Huml's team wins 6 of 15

Coach Don Huml's first year at the helm of the varsity baseball team produced a 6-9 record.

The diamondmen won the first IHSAA Sectional game by beating Concordia on a rain-soaked field, 8-0.

The locals finished sixth in the NEIAC standings.

Ross Gick was the leading batter with a .357 average. Dave McHenry was the ace of the pitching squad with two victories.

The Junior Varsity opened the season with a convincing 14-3 pounding of Culver, but ended with a 1-3 record.

NH runners break records in two distance contests

Hurdler Jim Michael leaps to a victory against South Side. South won the meet, 65-53.

New Haven's varsity track squad ran up four victories against seven defeats in dual meets for the 1968 season.

Steve Bultemeier was the only Bulldog cinderman to reach the IHSAA Regional meet. He placed third in the 880-yard run in the Sectional but failed to score in the higher level of competition.

School records fell in both distance races as Ted Cameron lowered the mile mark to 4:33.3, while Geary Hoeppner bettered the two-mile standard with a time of 10:10.2.

Cameron's time was posted in the New Haven Relays and rewrote the record book in that meet also.

The local ovalmen finished fourth in the NEIAC meet with 32 points. They were second in the NH Relays with 64½ points and 11th in the North Side Relays with 13. Bultemeier's two points in the Sectional gave New Haven an 11th place tie in the field of 18 teams.

The reserve team duplicated the varsity's 4-7 record in dual meets.

Golf squad lands second in NEIAC

The Purple and Gold were successful on the green during the 1968 season, finishing with an 11-8 record.

Stacy and Ritchie Clark, Jerry Mazock, and Mike Schannen each had a 36 during the year to tie for the season's low. Stacy Clark had the low average with an even 40.

The linksmen placed fifth in the IHSAA Sectional with a 72-hole total of 336 points.

The Bulldogs lost their 1967 NEIAC championship when Columbia City knocked the locals to second place.

The reserve team also had a winning season, taking seven of eight.

Former Olympian speaks at lettermen's banquet

Former Olympic runner Don Lash was the guest speaker at the Athletic Banquet May 8 in the High School Cafeteria. There were 300 guests at the banquet, including freshman lettermen from Village Woods and New Haven Junior Highs and eighth graders receiving letters at Central Lutheran and St. John's Catholic Schools.

Letterman's Club was made up of 22 seniors, 14 juniors, and four sophomores who met the membership requirements. These are to earn one varsity letter and be approved by the Athletic Council.

Letterman's Club took care of the athletic trophy cases. They also changed the lettering on the athletic sign board by Maloley's.

Members sold about 30 dozen t-shirts with Bulldog emblems on them.

GAA beats faculty in volleyball

Girls' Athletic Association played basketball, ping pong, badminton, tennis, and a game called "Wallop the Women Teachers in Volleyball."

Before the WOWO-Men's Faculty basketball game, the GAA team played the women faculty in volleyball. The girls had little trouble winning.

Members played basketball games with Concordia and Leo High Schools, winning both matches.

GAA used a point system this year to determine awards. Two points were given for each meeting attended. Points were also added or subtracted for team play in competition. Awards were presented at the swimming party.

Dolores Braun was given the sportsmanship award. This is awarded to the outstanding senior girl in GAA.

A heritage of growth in organizations

In the early years of the high school, very few clubs existed—there were too many chores and responsibilities at home. But during the 1920's speaking, debating, and acting societies became popular. The new sophistocation of the twentieth century spurred the formation of music groups. In 1922 New Haven had a 12-member orchestra, a girls' quartet, and an all-school chorus.

Now there is a club for every interest represented in the school. New clubs were formed this year. Music students worked together to establish Music Club with more than 125 members. A chapter of the national honorary society for high school journalism, Quill and Scroll, initiated 14 persons. Science Club added new sections for special interest groups—rocketry, psychology, and icthyology sections. Boys' Glee Club and Rifle Club were re-established after a year's lapse.

As the school grows, interests broaden and expand. Organizations are the bridge between the academic and social aspects of school life.

Mirage staff adds pages in '68 book

Major changes in the Mirage this year are the increased number of pages and the switch from a two-column format.

The number of pages increased from 160 last year to 176 in this edition of the Mirage.

Changing to a three-column format gave the editors more freedom in making layouts. More white space could be used to make it easier for the readers to follow the picture patterns.

Dick Hoagland, editor-in-chief, won a first-place award for this editor's brief at the workshop at I.U. last summer. Dick was also the photographer for this year.

In the Homecoming parade, the Mirage entered a bicycle-built-for-two which was decorated with purple and gold crepe paper. Dick and Lou Ann Saylor were the riders.

The Mirage staff had a combined banquet with The Herald staff at the Hong Kong Inn May 13.

Herald wins first class from NSPA

During its second year at New Haven The Herald changed to offset printing, won a first class from National Scholastic Press Association's critical rating service, and had an exhibit at the Fine Arts Fair.

Most subscribers didn't notice the change from letterpress to offset printing. Those who did saw the type was lighter and there were more pictures.

The Herald staff earned a first class rating which is comparable to an excellent. They received 3,440 points, with 3,800 the cut-off for the top rating. Last year the staff got 3,100 points.

For the Fine Arts Fair The Herald exhibited old Fort Wayne newspapers and showed W.C. Fields and Laurel and Hardy movies.

At the I.U. summer newspaper workshop, editor-in-chief Martha Berning won a fourth place on her editor's brief, plans for 1967-68 issues.

Journalists join Quill and Scroll

The newest club at New Haven is Quill and Scroll. It is an international honorary society for high school journalists.

Since its beginning in 1926, Quill and Scroll has granted more than 8,000 charters throughout the world.

The five membership qualifications are that the candidate must be a junior or senior, be in the upper third of his class scholastically, do outstanding work on high school publications, be recommended by his adviser, and be approved by the executive secretary of the society.

Fourteen Mirage and Herald staff members were initiated as charter members of Quill and Scroll's New Haven chapter at the publications banquet May 13.

Vision sells candy to pay for changes

New Haven's second edition of Vision, the literary magazine, had many improvements this year.

One of these was the sections within the magazine. The sections were society, inner feelings, nature imagination, near and dear, human nature, and foreign language. Drawings were used to accent the section division pages.

To raise money for all the changes the Vision II staff sold candy every Wednesday in February.

The cover was more elaborate on Vision II. Two art classes submitted cover designs to the Vision committee.

Mike Harnish and Rachel Koontz presented papers to the Indiana Junior Academy of Science Oct. 21 at Indiana University. Rachel was elected secretary of the organization.

The Science Club banquet was at the Pagoda Inn in April.

FTA treats NH teachers with favors

FTA started off the year with a welcome breakfast for the teachers. It was before school for all the teachers.

Each month a committee was chosen to make favors for the faculty. They made cupcakes that looked like Easter baskets, Valentine trees, and even gave the teachers red grading pencils at the end of first semester.

Four girls went over to the elementary school and helped with the kindergarten kids. They taught them how to run, skip, and jump.

FTA also participated in the annual book fair with Social Studies Club.

FTA finished their year with a banquet at Halls Smorgasbord.

They collected records to send to Vietnam servicemen. Members collected a total of 100 pounds of records.

Another project undertaken by Red Cross Club was the collection of paperback books for the soldiers in Vietnam.

They also packed friendship kits for the children in Vietnam.

The officers worked this year on revising the constitution. Red Cross Club finished off the year with a banquet at Hall's Smorgasbord.

M & G's 'Harvey' donates word to NH vocabulary

Pooka. (From old Celtic Mythology.) A fairy spirit in animal form; very fond of rum-pots, crak-pots—and that is what Harvey by Mary Chase is all about.

Harvey was the three-act play that Masque and Gavel put on this year. Elwood P. Dowd was played by senior Greg Theurer. It was the first time that the flats were painted for a play, and it also was the first time that there was a scene change.

Masque and Gavel also sponsored an actors bureau. That consisted of two one-act plays, Bench 18 and Curiousity, The actors went to groups in Fort Wayne and New Haven to put on plays.

For the Fine Arts Fair April 21, Masque and Gavel presented the one act play Submerged. This play had an all-male cast.

Senior's name added to Campbell Trophy

Kay Boese was the only senior in 1968 to earn 500 National Forensic League points in three years. Her name was engraved on the Campbell Trophy, an award given to those who earn 500 points.

NFL speakers went to 18 tourneys, not counting the debate tourneys. The 18 included sectional, district, and state contests, and student congresses.

Twenty-seven team members won ribbons. These helped to bring 18 team trophies to New Haven.

NHHS had its first debate tourney Nov. 7 under the directorship of Mr. Hamilton Kart, the new debate coach.

NFL sent three persons to the National Speech Tourney in St. Paul, Minn. They were Kay Boese, Brent Winans, and Bev Hower.

Rifle Club reorganizes; receives training course

A six-week training course was given to every boy who joined Rifle Club when it reorganized this year. The training course was conducted by certified instructors from the Old Fort Rifle Club of Fort Wayne. After finishing the training course, the new members received membership certificates.

Rifle Club met once a month for business meetings and every week for shooting practice on the rifle range.

At meetings the boys had rifle competition and awards were given for marksmanship levels.

Council changes its name and rewrites constitution

Twianne Stoller and Jim McRae get out decorations for the Cafeteria, scene of the Snowball Hop.

Student Council made a big change this year by revising the constitution and renaming itself Student Congress.

The Student Congress was divided into two houses consisting of the Advisory Board and the Legislature. The board has a representative from each club. The legislature is the Student Congress representatives and is led by the vice-president.

Dan Niccum, president, took charge of plans for the annual Snowball Hop Dec. 16. The theme was "Candlelight Cotillion."

The decorations were raspberry red and gold with the traditional mosaic mirror ball. The music was by December's Children.

The leadership committee of SC was in charge of the April P-TA meeting. Two members of each class discussed problems of the school and teens.

Bulldogs get new 'bone' from council

Putting the stuffing in the new spirit bone are Jan Gaskill and Jan Asher.

Making a new spirit bone was Sportsmanship Council's main project. It was made of gold corduroy, with purple lettering that said NHHS Spirit.

The money for the spirit bone was raised by having a penny pitch after a pep session. They collected over $60 for the bone.

The members made posters for all the games to promote school spirit.

At the Sadie Hawkins dance Sportsmanship Council had a shoe check. Couples checked their shoes before going into the dance in traditional dogpatch style.

Math Club hears talks by members

Each member of Math Club gave a speech at one of the meetings. They got the topic from a selected group of topics. Joyce Partridge and Kathy Stark gave a speech on topology, which is the study of remolding figures. Bob Perry talked about three dimensional chess, which is playing chess with three boards.

Math Club had a picnic at McMillen Park, May 19. They played baseball, volleyball, and initiated Mr. Claron Hanefeld as a new sponsor.

At Christmas time they decorated a Christmas tree in Mr. Shilling's room. Geometric and mathematical figures decorated the tree.

Club starts study hall for members

Instead of meeting after school like most clubs, Audio-Visual Club set up an audio-visual study hall. This was a small room where teachers could go to request projectionists to show movies and filmstrips.

Operating projectors for teachers and repairing the machines and films were the club's main projects. Complicated work was usually done by club sponsor Mr. Don Huml.

Complete instructions for running and repairing the machines was given to all new members at the beginning of the year.

Chess Club enters state tournament

The seven-member Chess Club had round-robin tourneys, lectures, and sent delegates to the Indiana State Chess Tournament.

After the round-robin tourneys were finished for the year, Robbie Gardner was named champion chess player. He had the best record of the club for the year.

Some of the members gave lectures explaining how to become better chess players in competition.

This was the first year the Chess Club sent delegates to the state tourney at North Central High School in Indianapolis. None of the delegates survived the first round of play-offs.

(Row four) Mr. Byron Downey (Spon.), Deb Geller, Roxanne Guillow, Mary Schwehn, Lou Ann Saylor, Linda Newman, Deb Ayres, Janyce Durnell.

Future Business Leaders of America sent five delegates to the State FBLA Convention at Ball State University in March. Linda Newman won a first place award in the speaking contest. She spoke about confidence. The club's scrapbook won a second place award, and Sue Scheimann competed in the spelling bee.

FBLA had two speakers from business colleges. One was from International Business College, and the other from Indiana University Extension of Technical and General Study.

In December FBLA gave a Christmas party for orphans. At the party Santa Claus came and a film "The Littlest Angel" was shown to the 20 children.

The banquet was at Zoli's. After dinner Lou Ann Saylor gave a speech.

'Homemakers' learn to cook foreign food

Home Ec members not only learned how to cook, but had speakers who talked about interior designing and how to make colored paper flowers.

Members tried making Italian, French, and Chinese food after meetings.

Home Ec Club made friendship kits for children in Vietnam. They put paper, pencils, books and toys in the kits.

Mrs. Ira Runyon, a professional seamstress, spoke to the girls Feb. 6 explaining the new method of pattern sizing.

At the Sadie Hawkins Dance and the Fine Arts Fair Home Ec Club made cakes, cookies, and candies to sell.

At the Banquet May 6 at Baer Field the girls gave aprons to their mothers.

The disabled veterans had company for Christmas this year. Hi-Y visited the Veterans Hospital with Concert Choir at Christmas time.

With other Y-Teen chapters, the New Haven club gave a birthday party for children whose parents were on welfare. They ate cupcakes and played games.

Hi-Y sent three delegates to the model legislature in Indianapolis March 30. They drafted bills to be presented to the model House of Representatives.

For Easter Y-Teens filled 175 plastic Easter eggs with candy for the veterans.

Hi-Y's basketball team finished the season undefeated and were runners-up in the city tournament. The team played eight games during January and February at the Central YMCA.

NHS inducts 34 members in February

National Honor Society started the year off by entering a car in the Homecoming Parade. They also had a poster in Victory Hall that said "Bulldogs Crave Panther Steak." The poster won third place.

Miss Opal Bower, National Honor Society's sponsor since it started at New Haven 22 years ago, retired this year.

In February NHS inducted 34 new members. After the induction ceremony in the Auditorium, old members honored the new members and their parents with a tea in the Cafeteria.

The spring banquet was at Cutter's Chalet where new members were informally initiated.

Club paints locker room for teachers

With only 15 members, Social Studies Club still accomplished as much as many larger clubs.

They painted the old locker room on third floor of the East Building, for teachers to use as a study and preparation room.

In February the club went to the Allen County Historical Museum. Later in the year, a speaker from the museum talked to the group about the museum.

Working with Future Teachers of America, Social Studies Club sold more than $500 of paperback books at the annual book fair.

The club learned about the juvenile delinquency problem in Fort Wayne and New Haven from Mr. Norman Hufford, chief juvenile officer of Allen County Juvenile Court.

French Club sells kisses to dancers

La Jacquerie tried to bring France to New Haven with French cooking, French can-can dancers, and a French Christmas booth.

At the Sadies Hawkins Dance French Club sold candy kisses for a quarter. If the wrapper said, "You get a kiss," then that's what you got.

For the Fine Arts Fair French Club had can-can dancers, French singing, and French cuisine.

At the Christ Child Festival they arranged a French living room with a fireplace, small tree, rocking chair, yule log cake, and a sign on the wall saying "Joux Noel—Merry Christmas."

Rathskeller gives fair German touch

After scrubbing, washing, and cleaning the boys' wrestling room, German Club was ready to start work on the Rathskeller for the Fine Arts Fair. They sold salami sandwiches, cookies, punch, and stuffed toy bears.

The third year classes put on the play The Three Bears at the Rathskeller.

German Club made pictures of Daisy Mae and Little Abner with their faces cut out for the Sadie Hawkins Dance. Couples had their pictures taken with their faces in the cut-outs.

Hellmut Schwartz, an escapee from East Berlin, told German Club about life in Berlin and how the schools are run. Mr. Schwarz is now an exchange teacher at Concordia High School.

Latin Club honors gods at banquet

Latin Club put on plays, initiated members, and sent delegates to conventions.

For initation the boys parted their hair in the middle, carried purses, and wore their shirts backwards. The girls wore dresses at mid-calf, rolled down their hose, and wore hair nets. All of these things were worn to school.

The Spring Banquet honored three Roman gods with a play. Neptune was played by Kerry Umber, Pluto by Dan Niccum, and Saturn by Larry Koenemen.

At one meeting Christina Winicker showed slides from her 1967 trip to Europe with the Honors Abroad program.

For this year's Honor Abroad program Debby Springer is an alternate and John Summers was a semi-finalist.

Music Club organizes talent show

In its first year at New Haven, Music Club became the largest club.

Music Club sponsored "Happening '68," a talent show with about 20 acts in it. The acts ranged from joke tellers to soft-shoe dancers.

The members went to Ball State University to hear the U.S. Marine Band and went to Taylor University in Upland to hear the Taylor Band give a concert. The group attended the Fort Wayne Stellar Concert Series.

May 4 the members of Music Club washed cars at Dick's Standard Station to earn money for next year.

Verifying a Stellar Concert date are officers Jay Treese, Joanne Boys, Pat Wick, Jill Schmidt, and Greg Purvis.

Long-skirted fans cheer on 1952 basketball heroes.

A heritage of growth in personalities

New Haven High School is not a building—it is people. Students, teachers, administrators, school board, cooks, and custodians—without them there would be no school. And this is the way it has always been. Fads and fashions aren't new—just variations of the past. This year's mini-skirt was grandmother's flapper, "Laugh-In" was vaudeville resurrected, and the MG's and Torinos of today used to rattle down the streets as Model T's.

The people who make up this school year are the same as those of 20 or 50 years ago. Teaching methods and computerized administration may be new, but people never change.

Sectional fans go wild in the first overtime game of the 1968 tourney.

Checking teacher applications is the responsibility of Superintendent Paul Harding.

"Where does all the money go?" is a familiar phrase with Mr. Michael Bonahoom, assistant principal, and Mr. Maynard Henwood, principal.

Remodeled offices save administrative shoe soles

Office space of 840 feet was added to equip a guidance office and a conference room. These changes moved assistant principal Michael Bonahoom from the East Building to work with Principal Maynard Henwood.

Three School Board members retired this year, Mr. Donald Johnson, president, and Mr. Walter Oehler and Mr. John Bollinger, members-at-large.

Mr. Paul Armstrong completed his first year as athletic director, replacing his brother Mr. Scott Armstrong. The athletic council consists of junior and senior high coaches and administrators who program the athletic events at New Haven.

Mr. Paul Harding, superintendent of East Allen County Schools, coordinates the system with the aid of eight assistants. They work in the areas of transportation, operation and maintenance, psychometry, curriculum, finance and special services such as speech and hearing.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL—(Front row) Jerry Mitchel, Don Huml, Maynard Henwood, Paul Armstrong. (Row two) Stan Hostetler, Pat Monaghan, Fred Cass, Fred Clark, Jerry Goeglein, Everett Cass, John Becker.

Mr. Norman Stephan comes face to face with his problem as Mr. Denny Benson weighs him during the male faculty's weight-losing contest.

"These kids don't know Shakespeare from Steinbeck! They just won't sit still today because of the pep session," pounded through teachers' minds from 8:05 to 3:10. Griping, laughing, and mostly talking was the diet of the NH teacher. More than 360 hours a day were spent in teaching, not including hours of making out tests, planning lessons, and trying to psych out students.

While students slept late, teachers attended ISTA meetings Oct. 26 and 27. Mr. Richard Schilling, math; Mr. Willard Travis, speech, and Mr. Art Wilder, science, were session chairmen.

Jan 4 the women faculty took on the GAA volleyball team. Wearing wrestling uniforms and coached by Mrs. Janice "Mama" Chase, the ladies fought to the end but lost all the games. However, the men faculty beat the WOWO Air Aces, 73, 72. The faculty won when WOWO's John Cigna made a basket for the New Haven team.

Secretaries keep bosses, schools running smoothly

ADMINISTRATIVE SECRETARIES—(Front) Mrs. Joan Hoffman, Mrs. Deloris Pfeiffer, Mrs. Carol Wake. (Row two) Mrs. Vivian Purvis, Mrs. Monica Lepper, Miss Pat Ort, Miss Trudy Smith.

Five new cooks were added to a staff of six this year because of the ala cart line. Unlike other years, students could chose the regular $.40 lunch or a variety of soups, salads, sandwiches, and desserts.

Two shifts of six custodians were required to maintain the building. Mr. Neil Hendrickson, head custodian, supervised the cleaning and repairing of New Haven.

Adding a cheerful word of "Hi, how are you?" or "Why were you late for class again?" were the high school secretaries whose jobs range from typing out menus to keeping track of attendance.

The administrative secretaries helped Mr. Paul Harding and his assistants with the smooth operation of East Allen County Schools.

The clinic is a favored hide out for students missing tests. Oh, yes, once in a while someone goes because they are sick. Mrs. Marie Perrin dispenses aspirin to those.

Leap year gives girls advantage

"I asked him! I finally asked him!" That was the statement most unattached female students uttered in the weeks prior to March 15. Leap year and Sadie Hawkins went hand in hand according to the Senior Class of 1968. Tables were turned, and the girls learned all about jittery nerves and anxieties of being turned down as they asked boys for dates.

At 6:30 the couples gadded about hillbilly style and paraded through a county fair with a tricycle race, French Club kissing booth, Jello throw, and an electric chair. The couples played games before the dance featuring the Vars. Brian Quandt, Senior Class president, was in charge of the dance and was aided by other class officers Larry Koeneman, vice-president; Becky Rennecker, treasurer, and Linda Williams, secretary.

But not all senior activities were as big a success as the Sadie Hawkins Dance. The Senior Class Snoopy float for the Homecoming Parade flopped. When it fell apart, the class withdrew it from the parade. Snoopy was rescued from the junk heap and rode with the cheerleaders.

The object of the game: electrocute your date first. Cindy Clause lost to Ed Pearson.

Shower caps and towels offer some protection behind the scenes at the Concert Choir "Sock-it-to-'em" Jello throw.

The Class of 1968 listens to an address by Dr. Robert DeHaan.

Everyone's favorite—Pat Foltz—accepts her diploma.

Largest graduating class ends 12 years of school

Thoughts of "I made it" run through these graduates' heads as they await the awarding of 328 diplomas May 24 at the Coliseum.

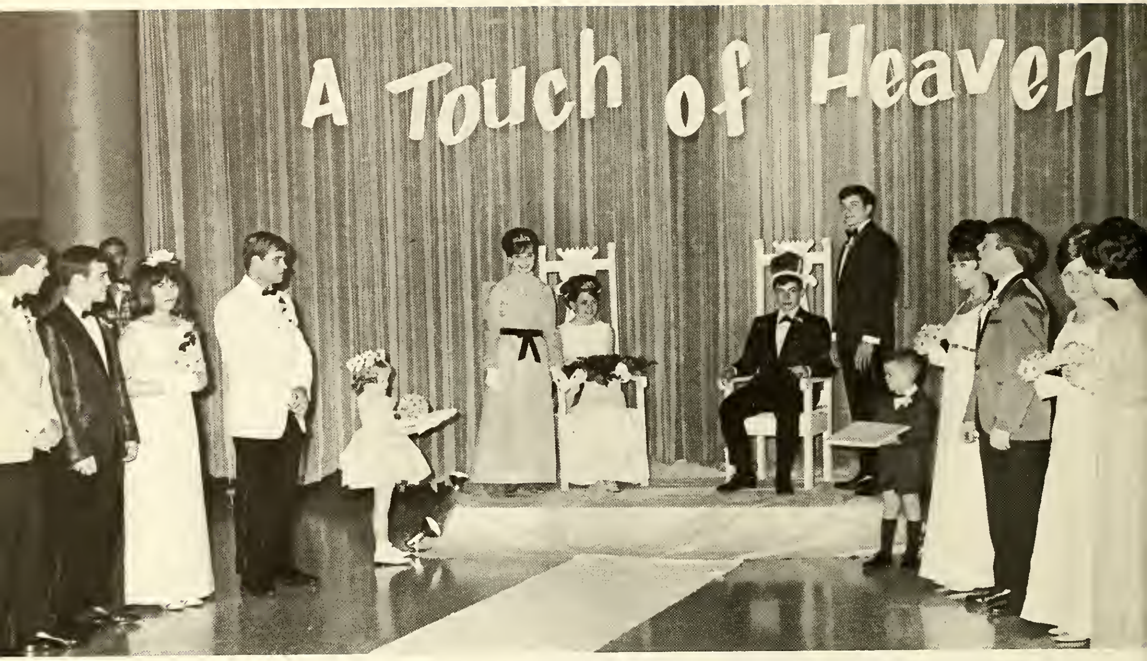
Twelve years of work ended for 328 seniors in a final week of activities including the dinner-dance, baccalaureate, and commencement.

The annual dinner-dance was at Lighted Acres May 22. After a buffet dinner, there was a skit and awards session for seniors and senior sponsors. The Barefoot Soul and The Children provided the music.

The Rev. George Huffman, New Haven Baptist Church, asked the question, "What Is Your Life?" at baccalaureate Sunday, May 19.

At the Memorial Coliseum May 24 Dr. Robert DeHaan of Hope College in Michigan spoke on poverty and race relations. His topic was "Must Every Summer Be Long and Hot?"

Senior Council announced that the class bought a sign to be placed facing Highway 30 reading "Home of the Bulldogs." The new sign will cost about $400, said the council.



A Touch of Heaven

Crowns in place, the 1968 Prom Court awaits the signal for the dancing to resume.

King and Queen of the 1968 prom were Denny Becker and Nancy Netherland.

No shoes, mini skirts, and music by the "Pillsbury Flour" brought couples "Back to Earth."

Good food added to the fun of Becky Rennecker and Tom Avery at the after-prom party.

Angel hair lends touch of heaven

"A Touch of Heaven" descended upon the earth May 5 at the Scottish Rite Auditorium. Music was provided by The Sophistocates of Swing and 232 couples danced to the theme "Impossible Dream."

Clouds of net and angel hair loomed above the couples as they made their way to the winding staircase to the stars in the middle of the dance floor. Tables decorated with small angels and net lined the walls. Pearly gates adorned the entrance.

Prom Queen Nancy Netherland and King Denny Becker reigned throughout the evening with their Court Linda Carl, Debby Springer, Mark Chapman, and Tom Reinking.

The King and Queen were crowned by 1967 King and Queen Ed Pearson and Jewell Bleeke. Others in the Senior Court were Linda Faulkner, Cindy Taylor, Mike Reinking, and Ed Merz.

At midnight "Good Night, Ladies" was played, and couples went "Back to Earth" at the Hullabaloo Club for the after-prom party.

Juniors create earthly heaven for prom

Juniors were just an average class of kids that did nothing out of the ordinary during the year. The "just about seniors" came to school everyday, took the usual tests, and put on the prom. Playing instruments, rehearsing plays, and practicing contest songs were other things that completed a junior's day.

Iowa Tests of Educational Development were given in the Cafeteria Oct. 11 and 12. Sixty-one juniors took the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test Oct. 14. This test was to show the juniors how they compared with other potential college students.

The juniors sponsored the prom May 4 at the Scottish Rite Auditorium. Work was started in October when the steering committee chose the theme, "A Touch of Heaven."

Prom steering committee was Betsy Goehring, Vicki Dommer, Linda Carl, Pat Winchester, Rhonda James, Linda McRae, Mark Chapman, and Connie Notestine.

Sophs have eye and ear examinations

The sophomores were a separate class of people—they had separate assemblies; they were the largest class ever at New Haven, and they won first place in the Homecoming float competition.

This largest "statisticated" sophomore class had 500 lockers, 1,000 gym shoes, 500 English III books, and five sets of twins. They got their first taste of class dues and rigid schedules.

Because there were 500 in the class, for the first time assemblies had to be split into a sophomore assembly and a junior-senior assembly.

Fifteen hundred paper napkins, crepe paper, and chicken wire won first prize in the Homecoming float competition. The theme of the float, which cost $40.00, was "Stew the Panthers."

The town of New Haven has grown considerably in the past 20 years.

A heritage of growth in advertising

Advertising used to come to the consumer on hand bills passed house to house whenever there was a sale on kerosene or crackers or lye soap. Then merchants recognized the opportunities presented by the growing field of mass communication. Newspapers and magazines began carrying major advertising sections.

From the beginning the Mirage has relied on advertising as a means of partial revenue. This year advertising income accounted for more than 14 per cent of the total budget of more than $5200. The growth of the advertising industry is reflected in the Mirage's 50 per cent increase over last year.

Trying on their graduation garb are Carol Yates and Newton Wylie.

We have followed our heritage of growth in academics, in sports, and in activities. This is school life. But school is just a small segment of life. Each person needs to establish a heritage of personal growth for his own life.

POTPOURRI: Kudos to all the staff and extras who made this book possible. Special thanks to outstanding assistant editor and friend Sharon Silverman for accepting all the responibility when I became involved in other projects or wanted to go camping. Great job, Sharon. (Clap, clap, clap!)

Also a salute to ad manager Stan Taylor. (Remember the trips to Goodrich for night pictures?)

Lest we forget, thanks to Russ Jacquay, Lou Ann Saylor, Jan Hensley, Bart Bircheff, Kathy Poorman, and all the other indispensables who slaved over the production of this book.

A great hand of appreciation to Miss Linda Gregory for encouragement ("It'll never get done."), for toleration of trees in pictures, and for pitching in and working when deadlines got close. Thanks, too, to Frank Woschitz of Paragon Press for advice and extras thrown in to make this book different. To Walker's House of Photography, thanks for all the rush jobs and good work. Also thanks to the high school cooks for dozens of chocolate chip cookies that sustained the busy editors during the noon hour. Let us pause for the applause.

The 1968 Mirage is a record of your school year, but to the staff it is a perpetrator of memories and nightmares—a flat tire on the way to the Franklin Journalism Convention . . . furnishing the elevator in Forest Quad at IU summer institute . . . escaping during the noon hour to The Pagoda Inn and The Hobby House.

Now, a special acknowledgement to Dan Niles, friend and fellow editor in Greenwood, Indiana.

This page winds it up

Finally, for all you readers who can never think when you are asked to sign a yearbook—a form ready to be filled out:

Dear ___________,

To a great kid—it's been great knowing you. We've had lots of fun together. Keep the way you are and you'll go far. Lots of luck in the future.

Your pal,

_______________
